President's Message

Summer is sizzling ... what better time to consider the warmth our Guild shares via community service?

The Royal Family Quilters meet once a month to create 40x60 quilts for the foster children who attend a week-long camp. In July, Sue Muller and I, along with my husband John, arrived at the camp near White Pass shortly after noon. We set up the quilts and joined the kiddos for pizza and salad.

Jean Keaveney
2017 TC Quilt Guild
President

The children gathered in the chapel building to receive the quilts. A few of the children had been to camp before and they were literally jumping up and down with excitement. The camp staff were oo'ing and ahh'ing over them as each child opened their quilt to see the topside and get their photo taken.

If you have not participated in the distribution of our community service quilts, I would tell you that you have missed the best part! It's a joy to see the smiles of the kids (and the adults as the case may be) as they receive this gift. Check your calendar and make plans to attend the next Habitat ceremony, or join us next summer when we take the beautiful ride to the mountains for Kids' Camp.

2018 Quilt Show News

Show Theme: “Persistence of Pattern”

Pattern! There’s so many way to think of the word and the ways we use it in quilting. Do you always use a quilt artist pattern or make up your own design? Do you have a favorite color palette or maybe fabric type? Is there a certain way you always set up to quilt? How do you store your stash?

We all have patterns. They can be a great comfort and make your time go smoothly. There may come a day when you want to break out of your pattern and surprise yourself and your friends.

Looking at mosaic tile art, the term “persistence of pattern” entered my mind. Persistence can apply to time honored blanket quilt blocks such as fans, hexagonal flowers, four and nine patches, and half square triangles. Think of the beauty we create with a variation on circles, squares, triangles, and rectangles. Persistence can order the mind, or drive you crazy. You get to choose.

Category: Guest Artist Laurie Shifrin of Laurie Shifrin Designs in Seattle will be our guest artist. Laurie has written three books: Batik Beauties, Batik Gems, and Batiks and Beyond. Her website has 21 patterns. Antelope Canyon will be her featured new quilt and will be on the save the date cards and program. If you have made any of Laurie’s quilts, they will be hung together in the “Laurie” category.

Additional show categories will be:

Category: Patterns That Persist The unfinished ones: patterns that persist through guilt, orphan blocks or pieces discovered in the back of a drawer or the bottom of a chest. Get them off your conscience: finish what you started in that class or make the project smaller or bigger, make it different or ...

Category: Patterns That Promise The unstarted ones: patterns that persist through excitement, the bucket list of things to try, the ones we haven’t begun because we feel inadequate or alone; if it’s too much, enlist the company of friends for a swap and/or a quilt-along.

Category: Patterns That Please The patterns worth repeating: patterns so rich with possibility or sewing pleasure that you have re-made them with variations. Space requirements might mean that we hang just a photo of your first version next to your new one.

--Elaine Brouillard

Introducing Guest Artist Laurie Shifrin

Recently featured in quilting magazines, Laurie Schifrin’s “Antelope Canyon” quilt caused another epiphany for quilt show chair Elaine Brouillard: “It is pattern superimposed on pattern ... squares and circles both persist!” So she had its creator booked for our show by in April!

Ironically, Laurie works for this year’s guest artist, Jason Yenter; she manages wholesale customer relations at In the Beginning Fabrics. When she is off the clock, she publishes books – Batik Beauties, Batik Gems, and Batiks and Beyond (check one out from the guild library) -- and patterns -- 19 are available on her website, <https://laurieshifrindesigns.wordpress.com>.

Tri-City Quilters' Guild Challenge 2018:
Express Your OCD***

**Obvious Circle Design*

“Gang of 5” Issues TCQG 2018 Quilt Show Challenge

The circle is certainly a persistent pattern. Across cultures, through time, it has signified totality, wholeness, perfection, the self, the infinite, eternity, timelessness, and cyclic movement. Sometimes it represents masculine power (the sun), sometimes the feminine maternal principle (the encircling waters). It has magical value as a protective agent.

The Gang of 5 friendship group invites you to find or create a circle design and sew your own version of it.

Your challenge entry must contain at least one full, round, 360-degree circle.

Circles can be appliqued (needle turned or machined or fused or raw-edge or portholes) AND/OR pieced (5-minute circles or portholes or drunkard's paths or New York beauties or winding ways or flowering snowball or wedges) AND/OR quilted AND/OR part of the fabric print

Your entry can assume any shape, but its circumference must be no smaller than 80” and no larger than 144”.

So, for instance, if you design in a square, 20x20 is minimum, 36x36 maximum; in a circle, 26 diameter is minimum, 44 maximum ;in a rectangle, 10x30 or 13x27 would achieve the minimum, 12x60 or 15x47 maximum (lots of possible proportions will work ... the math is minimal).

The sky is the limit for fabric content, surface design, embellishment.

Register by Feb 17, turn in by Mar 10; vote at meetings Mar 18.

We'll vote anonymously and secretly (as usual) for our top 3, and the challenge team will choose an honorable mention.

We hope your heads are spinning!

Cheryl Garrison, Geneva Carroll, Gretchen Gerke,
Jean Zoet, Karen Brun, Laurel Sutton

Raffle Quilt Assistants Needed

In order to make managing the raffle quilt more controllable this year, I am looking for assistants willing to take one month stints at coordinating the raffle ticket venues for their assigned month.

This means getting signups to 'man' the booth for the venues for the month and making sure it happens. I will make all the arrangements for the venues and help out with getting signups so I am hoping this breaks the job down into very manageable blocks (think of a nine-patch). I need seven persons for August through April. Please contact myself or Jean Keaveney if you can help and/or we'll ask for volunteers at the next meeting.

Thank You, Mark Palmer
VP and Lone Wrangler

Community Service
News

TCQG Community Service Chair Cyndy Underwood received this note of thanks from DVS:

Dear Cyndy and TC Quilters Guild,

Thank you so much for your tremendous efforts and time to make beautiful quilts for our clients. We love giving these blankets to clients and seeing the look of wonder that this beautiful work of art now belongs to them is priceless.

*Your efforts are appreciated!
